

Puolua Stream flowing into Lowrie Irrigation Ditch. Any downstream larval drift would be captured by the irrigation ditch.

Note the two pipes on the right that pass over the ditch and transport water from stream. They are connected to one pvc pipe which empties back into the stream downstream.